Dear Erika,
Ross has passed your email on to me. I am sorry that you did not get to speak to anyone at the Outdoors Show regarding our First Aid policy.
Unfortunately we cannot give official endorsement to individual courses. As you can imagine, we have are contacted by a very large number of companies and organisations regarding individual courses and therefore we have a policy of not providing official recognition for each one. We do instead however publish our criteria for equivalent qualifications to our own course, First Response, and your course would meet our minimum requirements. If any individual attends your course they can take their certificate to their Training Adviser who will be able to sign it off against those criteria.
I am sorry for any confusion that has been caused.
Kind regards,
Melissa Green
